A CELEBRATION OF

ENDURANCE

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Congratulations Scholarship Recipients,

This past year has been exciting but also very challenging. Here at Central Scholarship, we do more than just provide funding for higher education and career training programs. We also aim to ensure that our students thrive and succeed no matter how they define success. This past year, we as an organization and society have seen a lot of change. There have been changes in the law and how our civil liberties are being marginalized, changes in the workplace and how business is conducted, and changes at schools and how instruction is provided. Change is inevitable and often not easy but how we ENDURE these changes is a true test of character. We as an organization continue to look for ways to improve and expand our programming to support Maryland Scholars as they face these changes while working towards their post-educational goals and defined success.

We are grateful for the partners we currently have but are always seeking new alliances in the community to support our mission. We recognize that the education and career training industry is constantly changing and understand for our recipients to be successful we must look at them holistically. In addition to our scholarship, interest free loan, and financial literacy programs, we offer emergency funding and opportunity grants for life events outside of the academic realm. We encourage our students to take time for themselves, recognize when they need help, and seek assistance when necessary. I ended last year's Student Awards Ceremony by saying, "I got you." I meant it then, I mean it now, and I will continue to demonstrate through my leadership and my actions that we at Central Scholarship are now your Village – and We Got You.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

AARON MAYBIN

Aaron Maybin is a 32-year-old Art-Activist and former professional football player from Baltimore City, Maryland. Selected as the 11th overall pick in the 2009 NFL Draft by the Buffalo Bills as a former All-American defensive end at Penn State University. Aaron went on to play in the NFL for the New York Jets and the Cincinnati Bengals in a 5-year career before making the decision to walk away from football to pursue a career as a professional artist, activist, author, educator and community organizer. His transition from full-time NFL superstar to full-time artist and philanthropist has been extensively covered by ESPN, CBS, Fox, and garnered an HBO documentary warmly received by critics.

His art, photography, and writing have been exhibited in Galleries and museums internationally, examining many socially relevant themes and issues, drawn from his own personal experiences as a pro athlete and growing up as a young Black man in America. Aaron uses his public platform and artistic voice to advocate for racial and economic equality, arts education, and recreational youth programming in underprivileged communities across the country.

In 2009, Aaron established Project Mayhem to provide aid, both personal and economic, to help underprivileged and at risk youth excel beyond their current conditions. Through his work with Project Mayhem and as a teacher, Aaron has implemented art workshops and curricula into many Schools in the Baltimore City area that have had budget cuts due to a lack of State Funding. Aaron teaches creative arts and literacy in Baltimore public schools, created his Art Activism Curriculum (being taught in several Baltimore City Schools), and also Co-founded the Operation Heat Campaign, raising over $ 90,000 for schools struggling with heating issues in the wintertime.

Aaron is a Fox45 Martin Luther King Jr. Champion of Courage Award recipient, a Baltimore Arts Realty Corporation executive board member, and a member of the newly appointed Mayor's Transition team, serving on the Arts & Culture Committee. As an Arts teacher in the city, he continues to advocate for public policy to see Art programs restored in schools and more economic opportunities to be provided for the underprivileged people of Baltimore.

THE KEVIN KAMENETZ SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Central Scholarship is honored to give out our fourth Kevin Kamenetz Scholarship Fund award. This scholarship would not be possible without the generosity of the Committee for Kamenetz and Kevin's wife, Jill, as well as their children Karson and Dylan.

Kevin's Legacy will proudly live on through this fund and its scholarship recipients.

IN MEMORY OF BABETTE ROSENBERG

Central Scholarship is honored to pay tribute to board member Bruce Rosenberg's late mother, Babette Hecht Rosenberg.

Born in 1924 to Sylvia Cahn and Stewart Hecht, Babette attained a Bachelor of Arts at Smith College in 1945, and later married Benedict L. Rosenberg the same year. As an author, she wrote Remembering When: The Story of the Women's Division, and served on the Associated Jewish Charities & Welfare Fund from 1945-1975, wherein she documented Voices of Associated Women's early history.

In the pursuit of higher education, in 1967, she achieved a Master of Liberal Arts from Johns Hopkins University, and spent her time as a lifelong student, reader, and intellectual.

Her legacy is carried on by her sons, Stewart, Samuel "Sandy", and Bruce.
